

Summary

This API provides basic functionality for sample providers to integrate into Critical Mix's inventory of surveys.

As a supplier, you use the API to add your participants into our database. You can then call to get a list of surveys for which a participant is qualified. As you send the participant into our system, we will collect and store additional demographic information as needed to determine their full qualification status. As we collect more information we will be able to more accurately target your participants for future surveys.

We are no longer doing any active development on Version 1 of the Supplier API. However, we will continue to run the service and support our existing users for as long as needed.
